As a woman of child-bearing age, I'm concerned about the ~~the~~ health impacts of of the coal train. I'm concerned about the impact on my reproductive health, but moreso on the health of a fetus should I become pregnant. I also have concerns about the air quality. I live about a mile away from the proposed site. The air quality near my home is already questionable on certain days due to our current industrial plants; I can't imagine that adding more to that would not significantly reduce air quality. How can I in good conscience let my child play outside in air polluted with the toxins of the coal terminal?

Also, considering many support the coal terminal as it could boost jobs, I really don't think it would be as beneficial to the economy as Millennium is making it out to be. ~~I~~ I firmly believe that educated citizens with the means to move elsewhere will do so. We will lose a great deal of jobs because of this.
