We are at a pivotal point in the Pacific NW - our area has been targeted for the coal industry and we need to say NO!

We can do the right thing for our region, our children + grandchildren.

Not focusing on fuel that is non-producing will ~~only~~ ^{alternatives} keep us dependent on power that heats the planet up.

(comment continued)

We can do better. We need to do the research and make the best choices for our future generation.

Thank you.

My husband has S.D.P.R. I'm concerned the coal dust and contaminants will shorten his life and make it so we will need to move. And what about the new city water will located not far from millennium will our drinking water be safe? I think not as the contaminants get into the river and sink into the ground, and the fish and wild life become sick because of it.
