And to who it may concern.

My name is Robert A. Kenyon, My wife and I live two blocks from Spokane Community College . Soon we will have the North South Super N.A.F.T.A. Freeway over head of the College parking lot to the east. We already have train tracks to the north and south of us. When they go by at all hours, blowing there horns, crashing their cars into one another, it is very annoying. At times I swear it sounds like they are just outside the house. So I went threw the house putting extra insulation in the walls and attic, plus two layers of sheet rock on the walls and four pains of glass in the windows.

That helped, but they are still very annoying. So its going to be even more annoying to us and the community if there is an increase of rail traffic. I hate the thought of moving from here, but I may have to.

Plus with an increase of rail traffic that means an increase of a chance for an accident polluting the ground water for hundreds of thousands of people. It seems that corporations can do whatever they want.

Plus if other countries want our coal & oil then all the trade agreements should be changed to support the people and environment. Eliminating human and environment abuses. If we can't have that kind of trade then no trade at all.
