

Form Letter N:

I am writing to request that the Corps conduct a full environmental review, pursuant to the National Environmental Policy Act ("NEPA"), of this Project. The opening of coal export terminals in Washington and Oregon is among the more pressing environmental and energy issues of our time. There are multiple proposed terminals in the region currently under review or in exploration stages. Collectively, these projects could transform the region with toxic pollution, traffic and rail congestion, and a dramatic increase in greenhouse gas emissions. Preparation of a full EIS and consideration of alternatives is required by law and, more importantly, necessary to ensure that the public understands the environmental risks and has an opportunity to weigh in.
